Seven Die in Tragedy at Utica

Starvation Gave—M. Taylor Killed His Wife, Five Children and Himself—Neighbors Missed Singing Voices and Accidents.

Utica, N. Y., Feb. 19 (AP).—Official report of six murders and a suicide given today by Coroner G. A. Allen in the case of Mr. and Mrs. M. Taylor and their five children, the finding of whose bodies late yesterday revealed the city's latest tragedy.

That the father, crazed because inability to get work, stabbed his wife to death, then slew all five children before taking his own life was the conclusion of the authorities.

Fear of starvation rather than actual want drove the man insane, the authorities declared, following the finding of $45 concealed in the underwear of the mother.

It was first thought that the family was without funds and that the father and mother agreed to do away with themselves and the children.

Later investigation showed that the Associated Charities had investigated the case, had found the mother employed and had offered its assistance although the family had never appealed for charity.

Public Funeral Sunday.

Reports from the coroner where Taylor had been employed up to February 7 showed that he had $11.97 owing in wages which he had never called for.

While Schenectady police were searching today for relatives of the family, Utica officials including Mayor Frederick Gillmore, representatives of philanthropic organizations and police met and decided upon a public funeral for all seven victims of the tragedy tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Public interest in the case was such that indication were the funeral would be the largest attended in the history of the city not excepting the last rites of the late Vice-President James S. Sherman of Utica.

The tragedy, as reconstructed today by the police after assembling all evidence, indicated that the father, who had been drinking, had planned to do away with the family and himself, and went about his plan with the cunningness which often characterizes the deeds of those mentally deranged.

Neighbors Missed Music.

Music was stilling in a squalid tenement today while a neighbor, who lived outside the door of a mean apartment and tried to account for a melody that snuffed out seven lives.

In death inside the door lay the bodies of Guy M. Taylor, a teamster out of work, his wife and five children, victims of a razor and bowie knife that slashed their throats.

As police pieced together the larger details of the tragedy, they entered from the evidence at hand a little sugar and a crust of bread, three beds, a kitchen table, a broken down chair and a battered trunk—that the teamster killed his wife and family rather than see them starve and then took his own life.

Boy Struggled Until Death.

All apparently gave up without a struggle except Owen, a boy of 14. His body was found propped against one of the beds and police assumed that he struggled until the knife ended the struggle. The other bodies were on the beds.

Police forced their way into the darkened rooms yesterday after neighbors reported they missed the singing voices and the accordion to which they had been accustomed nightly. The teamster usually spent the evenings over the keys of his accordion while his children sang in chorus to the music.

The slayings occurred on February 11, the day the music ceased, the coroner decided. He said the deed was deliberately planned.

Heavy Snow and High Wind Storm

Miniature Blizzard Broke Over Kingston and Vicinity During Night—City's Snow Equipment Placed at Work Opening Streets.

About 10:30 o'clock Friday evening snow began falling in Kingston and by midnight a miniature blizzard was raging, and in many places the snow-as it fell was drifted to a depth of two or three feet by the high wind that blew throughout the night and early morning hours of today.

The snow storm followed the heavy rain fall of Friday morning which ceased at noon when the sun began to shine. Later in the afternoon the sky again became overcast and it was apparent that another storm was brewing. As the night wore on the weather became cooler and the wind began to blow.

At midnight Superintendent W. Scott Van Kuren of the board of public works called out his snow fighting forces, at 2:30 o'clock in the morning the city's first snow plow left the municipal building and at 3 o'clock all of the snow fighting equipment was busy at work opening the streets.

Owing to the high wind that drifted the snow, streets became clogged with snow almost as fast as the snow plows passed through them.

The wind played many peculiar tricks on householders for while some sidewalks were practically swept bare of snow, adjoining walks were drifted high with snow banks. The snow plows worked throughout the remainder of the night and during the day opening the streets.

Blame Cantonese Forces for Strike

As Strike Continues to Spread Indications Point to the Long-expected "Boring From Within" Method of the Cantonese By Use of Propaganda.

Shanghai, Feb. 19 (AP).—"Precautionary mobilization" of the Shanghai volunteer corps, a defense body composed of residents of the international settlement, was ordered tonight in preparation for contingencies in the strike of Chinese workmen, which continued to grow worse as Nationalist sympathizers celebrated the victory of the Cantonese at Hangchow.

The order means that all members totaling more than 1,600 men, must don their uniforms and be ready to respond at a moment's notice.

An attempt to continue tramway service in the international settlement resulted in the stoning of several cars by strikers, and foreign passengers were endangered. Service finally was entirely stopped.

As the strike continued to spread, some labor leaders declared it was only a projected two day cessation of work to celebrate the Nationalist capture of Hangchow, but indications are growing that this is the long-expected "boring from within" designed to cause the complete downfall of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, the city's defender.

Propaganda Big Help.

The Cantonese method of "boring from within" by the use of propaganda has done much toward aiding them in sweeping over half of China within the last year or so.

Water works employees in the French concession struck, causing a water shortage in some districts. Employees in the electric plant of the international settlement threatened to join.

British troops were kept to their barracks to prevent armed clashes. The seamen's union joined the 40,000 or more strikers who went out earlier in the day.

Marshal Sun's local defense committee asked permission of the foreign authorities to run armored motor cars through the international settlement in the Chinese section of the city.

Another prospective battle is in the offing with Marshal Sun gathering together a broken army of some 40,000 men to make a last stand at Sunkiang, 28 miles south of here. The Cantonese, from which an attack is expected were said to have 50,000 or more troops on their southern front.

Shipment of Arms Into Nicaragua Increases Danger

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP).—The continued shipment of arms from the outside to the Nicaraguan Liberal forces apparently is again regarded as threatening phase of the Central American republic's civil war by the Washington government.

Although not disclosing what country is furnishing the munitions, the White House advances it as another reason, besides the protection of Americans, for the recent ordering of 1,400 marines to Nicaragua. The administration, however, links up the importations as constituting a danger to Americans there in the belief that the additional equipment for the Liberals will inspire increased warfare.

President Alford Diaz of Nicaragua has repeatedly charged that Mexico is supplying with arms the Liberal army of Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, claimant of the presidency.

News despatches declaring that rumors of American intervention were circulating in Managua and that Diaz troops in some places have adopted a cautious attitude were of interest to officials here but comment on either situation was deemed unlikely.

The discussion of intervention apparently is receiving some unofficial consideration among members of the Nicaraguan congress as some Diaz supporters in the Senate were said to have studied the procedure between the United States and Haiti in 1915, when American advisors were provided for the Haitian government. The cautious attitude among Diaz troops resulted from lack of pay and because of recent forced marches, some of the soldiers refusing to travel except by automobile.

Greatest Country, Declares Lenglen

New York, Feb. 19 (AP).—"Well, I've got my million!" exclaimed Suzanne Lenglen facetiously when on the eve of her departure today for France, after a four months tour which took her from Maine to Texas and from Oregon to Florida, the Associated Press asked her what she thought of America.

Then assuming as serious a mien as possible for "Saucy Suzanne," she went on: "This is the greatest country in the world," adding as an aside, "in many respects."

The "million" is in francs, still considered a fortune in France.

"The many respects" are prosperity, efficiency, sobriety and politeness. So Suzanne says.

"I had been warned to look for booze and bunk, for bores and bores. I have found ice water and straightforwardness, gentlemen and interesting people."

"What do I think of American men?" Mile. Lenglen has a habit of repeating all questions put to her before answering.

"Physically, I have seen no finer specimens of young manhood in any of the numerous countries I have visited. They are tall, trim, slim and uniformly goodlooking. Mentally—well, I did not come in such intimate contact with any of them to judge. Yes, they seem a bit timid."

"Yet reports have gone abroad that you had been deluged with marriage proposals," was the retort.

Suzanne's eyes twinkled, her face lit up, as she said with real Suzanne spirit: "Please note that one to the last, I did not receive a single marriage proposal during my stay here. I know it would sound better if you could headline it 'Suzanne refused fifteen offers of marriage,' but it would not be true."

"You boys have been marrying me off for the past five years. I suppose, when you are short of copy, you must say: 'Let's marry Lenglen.' Had I been married as many times as reported, I should have a whole regiment of husbands."

Of American women, Suzanne said they were a type of their own, dressed well but more expensively than French women. "I think New York women, although different, look as well as Parisiennes but it costs them more money."

"Hospitality" was the predominant virtue of Americans.

"Everywhere we went, north, south, east, west, we were received magnificently. No one appeared to be able to do enough for us."

Clearing Country Roads of Snow

Trucks Succeeded in Keeping Main Highways Open Without Difficulty—Heavy Equipment in Readiness for Emergency.

County Superintendent James F. Loughran and his assistant, Andrew Keefe, were on the job early clearing the highways of the snow which commenced to fall during the night. As soon as the snow had reached a sufficient depth to make it practical trucks equipped with scrapers were sent out to clear the roads. These trucks were kept running constantly and up until noon had experienced no difficulty in handling the work. The heavy equipment was kept in readiness for an emergency and crews were held in readiness to start out should the drifts become so bad that the trucks could not handle the situation.

All of the trucks were in operation and the main highway from the Orange county line to the Greene county line was kept open. Trucks were sent out to Phoenixia and Rosendale and little difficulty was experienced in getting through.

The snow in the vicinity of Pine Hill had not drifted to any extent at noon and the truck sent out in that direction had been able to cope with the situation. However, toward Ellenville where there is great danger of drifting one of the lighter tractors was used to prevent the road becoming closed. A tractor was also sent out to the south on the river road shortly before noon.

Little trouble is anticipated unless the storm continues.

Congress Will Be Kept Busy

Boulder Canyon Major Task in Less Than Two Weeks Remaining in the Session—Other Measures Remaining on Calendar.

Washington, Feb. 19 (AP).—With three major measures sent to President Coolidge during this week, Congress hopes to further clear its legislative decks before its 69th session fades into history March 4.

Counting the enacted McNary-Haugen farm relief, McFadden branch banking and radio control bills as important legislative achievements, the Senate and House now are faced with the remaining of the long overruled Boulder Canyon legislation as a major task in the less than two weeks remaining in the session.

Another problem is likely to flare up in the three cruiser construction program, called for in the navy appropriation bill, in view of developments in the President's naval limitation proposal. This measure, together with other supply measures, including the army appropriations, public buildings and deficiency bills, also remain on the calendar. With this prospect, both chambers face night sessions, the Senate commencing a series next week.

Radio Control Up to President.

Final congressional approval of the radio control bill, which establishes a federal commission of five members to adjudicate controversies in that industry, was given yesterday by the Senate in a rather colorless climax to the previous controversial considerations of the measure. Its enactment was made without even a record vote and with less than a third of the members present. The President is expected to sign the bill next week and to send to the Senate before adjournment the names of the commission's members.

Meanwhile, Mr. Coolidge also is considering the McNary-Haugen and McFadden bills. While there is no doubt that the branch banking legislation will receive his signature, his attitude toward the farm relief bill has come from the White House, but he has commenced conferences with his cabinet members, particularly seeking the advice of Secretaries Jardine, Hoover and Mellon. Congressional opinion on his decision is divided.

Search for More Tornado Victims

Death Count Is Placed at 32 With More Than a Thousand Injured and 200 Homeless in Various Sections.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 19 (AP).—Louisiana and Mississippi today were bearing an authentic approximation of the damage done by the tornado which struck sections of both states Thursday night.

While the death count stood at 32, rescue parties still were searching debris for other bodies. The body of one negro girl in Tensas Parish was found a quarter of a mile from the place she was when the tornado struck.

The storm dead were divided as follows:

Twelve dead in Sabine Parish, Louisiana, near Pleasant Hill, eleven dead in Tensas Parish, La., eight dead at Ouehish, Miss.

More than 1,000 were injured and 200 are homeless in the various sections. Property damage is estimated at well over $200,000. The property damages were comparatively low, due to the fact that the storm struck hardest in isolated farming sections.

At Pleasant Hill, La., simple rites were held yesterday for seven of the nine members of the Ashby family. The bodies were buried in one grave. Residents of the section said the family had been picked up bodily and thrown across the road, where the bodies were discovered.

Incendiary Fire On Wilbur Avenue

Vacant House Discovered on Fire at 4 o'clock in the Morning—High Wind and Snow Make Fire Fighting Difficult.

While Policeman Ray Van Buren was patrolling Wilbur avenue at 4 o'clock this morning he discovered the roof on the vacant house at No. 26 Wilbur avenue on fire and promptly turned in an alarm from Box 71 to which the fire department responded.

Owing to the high wind and heavy snow storm the firemen had difficulty in fighting the flames but finally brought the fire under control at 4:55 o'clock after the roof of the house had been destroyed.

The house was owned by Joseph Alford of Yonkers, who had recently purchased it, and it had been vacant for several months.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who made an investigation of the fire, stated it was undoubtedly of incendiary origin and had started in the attic and burned through to the roof. When the firemen reached the house the entire roof was in flames. The cellar door had been found open and it is believed that some one entered the house through the cellar, and started the fire in the attic. There was no fire below the attic.

With the damage by fire and also by water, Chief Murphy estimated that the damage to the house would amount to about $2,000.

Trolley Cars Use B'way Crossing

The trolley cars are now using the Broadway railroad crossing instead of the Colonial subway. The work of laying the trolley frog was completed Friday morning by the West Shore railroad employees and the trolley cars began running over the crossing at 11 o'clock that morning.

According to the trolley car crews the cars are making better time than when the subway was used, and up until 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon had not lost a minute's headway by reason of delays at the crossing.

Shortly after midnight this morning the trolley road ordered out the two snow plows which opened the road and this morning trolley cars were operating on schedule time. Trolley car crews said that even with the difficulty in operating under blizzard conditions, the trolley cars were making better time than when they used the subway.

In order to make ten minute headway on the system the trolley cars are running only as far as East 12th street and North street, where there is a crossover on the car which is to be taken to the corner of Delaware avenue and North street.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 19, 1927.

The interesting plan which the late ex-Governor Baldwin of Connecticut said he had adopted was "to read and learn as if you were going to live forever and to act as if you were going to die today."

One of the ten young college students who recently committed suicide within two weeks left word that he did it because he "found life meaningless and futile." This ought to interest those extra-"modern" professors who, in effect, convey just about that view of life.

ECONOMICS, NOT POLITICS.

Discussing the tariff, Senator Reed Smoot asks, "What is the essential difference between an inadequate tariff such as that of 1913, and an adequate tariff such as that of 1922?" And answers his question:

"The difference between domestic success and failure. The width of this chasm is determined by circumstances that may differ in each case or commodity. That is a matter of investigation and inquiry. A 'competitive' or low tariff under the plea of 'tariff reform' was tried in 1894 and again in 1913. Neither worked to the advantage of American industry or labor. The facts of economic history prove this."

An equalizing tariff is neither class legislation nor a tax on the many for the benefit of the few. The slight increase in the cost of some articles which may be occasioned by a tariff on them, is made up many times by the benefits accrued through operation of these industries.

PENALIZING CARELESSNESS.

The United States has done little regarding personal responsibility for damages done to others by fires caused by carelessness. In Indiana, however, an owner of property may be held liable for damage done by fire to another's property, provided this damage was occasioned by failure to comply with an order of the state fire marshal.

Authority of the state fire marshal includes making and issuing orders for abatement or removal of fire hazards and includes ordering of repairs to or the complete removal of buildings found to come within the purview of the act, as well as enforcement of regulations pertaining to storage, use, manufacture, sale, handling and transportation of all classes of combustibles and explosives.

The owner of property, condemned as a fire hazard, who persists in maintaining it in such a condition despite the order of the state fire marshal, may be held liable in damages to others whose property is reduced in rental value or otherwise by reason of condition of condemned property or whose insurance rates upon their own property are increased by reason of such condition.

WRONG IN PRINCIPLE.

In New York state the proposal is made to eliminate private insurance companies from the field of industrial casualty insurance. High state officials and the New York State Federation of Labor favor destruction of this branch of private business. Organized labor leaders in New York state: "If compensation is to be effective as a special agency it must necessarily be based as a business. A state monopoly will make it a social agency. At present it is a competitive business run from a desire for profit."

The argument of the New York gentlemen that the insurance business is run for a profit, and, therefore, should be destroyed and taken over by the government, could be applied to any business. How many officials of the New York State Federation of Labor work for the love of their jobs? They undoubtedly all work for a profit, namely, a good salary. All laboring men work for a profit. Grocery stores, clothing stores, meat markets and every line of business work for a profit. An industry that does not make a profit goes out of existence. Labor leaders who believe they are doing it for the public good, the government, take over the labor union, eliminate the standard of high colored officials, eliminate the profit of labor and fornish it at cost to the producer and consumer?

The whole argument is wrong in theory, and represents the drive of officialism to extend the hand of government into every possible branch of private activity. Every time the government starts to furnish a service "at cost," it means that the private citizen has been barred from doing business and that additional burdens have been heaped upon the taxpayer who does not use the service. No arguments advanced by advocates of state ownership of private business can get around these hard, cold facts.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

MAKING GOITRE OPERATIONS UNNECESSARY.

Although most of us do not take enough exercise there are times when complete rest, mental and physical, is essential.

Many individuals afflicted with goitre, are advised to rest completely and take iodine internally.

It has been found that when operation appears necessary, and rest and iodine treatment has been carried on for some time, that frequently the operations become unnecessary, or if undergone there are practically no deaths therefrom.

The rest and the iodine slow up the heart rate and other body processes so that loss of weight is prevented. At this time then the attending physician actually overfeeds these patients with milk, cream, whole meal bread, green leafy vegetables and vitamins of all kinds, so that they may gain in weight as rapidly as possible.

Why is rest necessary? It has been found that iodine leaves the body by means of the kidneys and skin. Therefore if one exercises the iodine is removed too quickly by means of perspiration and urine.

It is essential that waste matter in large intestine be removed from body, and if one doesn't exercise then the waste matter in the large intestine stimulates intestinal action.

Now what happens if constipation is permitted?

There is bound to be poisoning of the blood from the presence of this waste matter in the intestine.

What is the effect of this poison?

The juices from the thyroid and other glands that should be used in regulating the various processes in the body, are used to fight or neutralize these poisons.

The point then is that whether you have goitrous trouble or not, your safety lies in preventing constipation.

And the result is attained by exercise in ordinary health, or by suitable foods if you are goitrous or otherwise sick.

Simple Device Made Revolution in Music

According to manuscripts, the playing of the steel guitar, which has made Hawaiian music famous throughout the world, was originated by a Hawaiian lad in 1898, who found that by placing an article on the fingerboard of the guitar while playing a novel sound could be produced. The boy Joseph Kekuku, then a student at Kamehameha school, first got the idea when he placed a pocket comb on the fingerboard and brought a new twang from the instrument. This was followed by experiments with the blade of a pocket knife and resulted in the use of a piece of thick steel for the purpose. The "new music" took the islands by storm and later spread over the entire world.

"This invention of the Hawaiian schoolboy," says survey, "is the most significant contribution of Hawaii to music, the introduction of an entirely new technique for the playing of stringed instruments, at least as far as the western world is concerned, although the Japanese employ a similar technique with one of their stringed instruments and some African tribes north and south of the Congo do the same with the musical bow, using a shell as a halfa blade."

Members Don't Pay for Tickets

Members of Ulster County Musical Association Fail to Keep Pledge—Next Concert Dependent on Payment—Music Concert Given Friday.

Friday evening the members of the Ulster County Musical Association listened to a concert of marvelous beauty given at the high school by the Elshuco Trio—William Kroll, violin; Willem Willeke, violoncello; Aurelio Giorni, piano—following an announcement made by Harry P. Dodge, that startled most of them.

Before the program, Mr. Dodge appeared before the assembled audience and disclosed to them the fact that 45 members of the association have not yet paid for their tickets, though they had pledged to do so last fall. He further stated that it would be absolutely necessary that these members should make their payments if the association was to have the money to pay for the last concert, as the officers have figured with utmost closeness to make the concerts and the money pledged come out even. There has been absolutely no margin.

Furthermore, Mr. Dodge stated that unless there was marked evidence on the part of the people of Ulster county that they wanted concerts next season, of like character with those given the last two years, by pledging a much larger number of tickets for next season, the officers felt that they could not again undertake the concerts. Those present were asked to carefully consider the matter before the next concert and come then prepared to state on blanks that will be provided, whether they wish to take tickets for next year, and they were also asked to bear themselves and secure other members whose names they could turn in, since upon the assurance of memberships at the next concert would depend the fate of Kingston musically next season.

The Elshuco Concert. The Elshuco Trio chose for its program of chamber music three trios of surpassing beauty and appeal. With so little opportunity to hear chamber music outside the large musical centers, unless there is some familiar appeal to the music, it can not gain friends in large numbers from once being heard. Friday evening's program was so rich in melodic and harmonic beauty and pulsating rhythm that it held the audience spellbound, and with a real longing to hear it all over again for better acquaintance.

So perfect was the ensemble that it might well have been called a "trinity" of tone, the three instruments seeming to have but one soul of sound. Such being the case, perhaps no one of the musicians should be especially mentioned. But when one can bring from a piano a tone so deep and round and vibrant that the listener feels it to be a string instrument like the violin and cello, as did Mr. Giorni, it is worthy of note.

Johannes Brahms was a lover of the best and most beautiful in music and his Trio in B Major, Opus 8, with which the program opened was so presented and interpreted by the Elshuco Trio as to give to the audience as many shades of musical beauty as were expressed in the four movements: the graceful "Allegro con brio," the smiling and gay "Scherzo: Allegro molto," the spiritually beautiful "Adagio" and the graceful, charming "Allegro."

The second number, "Sonata in B Minor," by Jean Baptiste Loelliet, opened with a stately "Largo" which was followed by a gay and tripping "Allegro" that passed with a few wistful notes into an appealing "Adagio" and ended with a lovely "Allegro."

The audience had caught the spirit of the music and demanded a recall, to which the three master musicians responded, playing a delightful Scherzo from Saint Saens Trio in F Major.

The program closed with a Trio in D Minor, Opus 32, by Anton Stepanowitch Arensky. All through the opening movement, "Allegro moderato" there ran a lovely, lifting figure that will be recalled by many who heard the trio. "The Scherzo, Allegro molto" was followed by an exquisite "Elegia: Adagio" movement and then the brilliant "Allegro non troppo" that was never less beautiful because it was more brilliant. It was applauded repeatedly and the Elshuco Trio most kindly returned to give one more bit of musical joy, in the "Far Niente" by Camar Cal, as their farewell.

The next and last concert of the season will be given on Friday, March 25. Cecilia Hansen, violinist, being the artist.

SCHOOL NO. 7 P. T. A. HAS INTERESTING PROGRAM

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 7 held its monthly meeting Thursday evening, February 17, and a large audience enjoyed an unusually interesting program. After the transaction of business which consisted of four new members being admitted for membership, the awarding of the attendance banner to Miss Schoen's room, downstairs and Miss DeWitt's room upstairs, took place. The reading of an article on "Fondness for Day" by Mrs. Jennie Scott, and a silver offering taken up for the National Child Welfare Fund was also a part of the program. The following program was given:

QUEER QUIRKS in HUMAN DESTINY

By HARRY R. CALKINS

Shipwreck Gave Rome Power. A GALE which blew a Carthaginian ship ashore on the coast of Italy spelled the doom of Carthage as the mistress of the Mediterranean.

Roman arms had met the soldiers of Carthage on the island of Sicily in 264 B. C. and had wrested the island from them in two years of war. Their success inspired Rome to think of further conquests abroad, but she had no fleet of consequence, nor did her shipbuilders possess the knowledge and art of building vessels to contend with the mighty ships of Carthage.

Then the wind blew a great quinquereme—a vessel with five banks of oars—ashore in the domain of Rome. Shipbuilders now had a model to guide their labor. The builders also added an original invention to the new Roman ships—a sort of suspended bridge attached to the mast which could be dropped on the deck of an enemy vessel, where it would be held by a long spike driven into the deck by the fall.

These bridges proved a great aid, for the Romans were at their best in a hand-to-hand fight. Although they were poor sailors, the Romans overcame the first Carthaginian fleet they met, on the north coast of Sicily, by using the boarding bridges. Within three years Rome launched an expedition against Carthage herself. The fleet met a superior sea force at Ecumene on the southern coast of Sicily and the battle was stubbornly contested. At last the fleet of Carthage, badly crippled, fled. Roman troops were landed in Carthage and ravaged the country. Their victorious course was temporarily halted by the arrival of Xanthippus, a Greek general in the pay of Carthage, who beat them in battle and captured Regulus, the Roman commander.

The war dragged on for years and Rome emerged with the islands of Sardinia and Corsica in addition to Sicily as spoils of the war. Rome had not only learned to send soldiers to sea, but had been fired with a zeal for conquest that was to change the whole course of civilization.

"... because the Oakland Six is built to a degree of precision previously unknown in cars of its price"

You need not make any extended comparisons to understand why the Greater Oakland Six is so emphatically preferred by those who demand of their cars not only satisfying beauty and performance but also unusually long life and reliability.

The answer lies in the fundamental principle of Oakland construction—because the Oakland Six is built to a degree of precision previously unknown in cars of its price!

True, Oakland provides unsurpassed beauty and style by the use of superior Fisher bodies; and an extraordinary agility, smoothness and silence by employing such advanced engineering features as the exclusive Rubber-Silenced Chassis and the Harmonic Balance.

But by working to limits that once typified the hand-built car, by following such extraordinary practices as diamond boring all piston pin bushings and balancing all rotating parts from transmission to rear axle—

Oakland achieves a resistance to wear, tear and road shock that actually borders on the unbelievable!

You need only to talk to veteran Oakland owners—or observe veteran Oakland Sixes in action—to understand why the trend of fine car buying continues to swing so strongly toward the Greater Oakland Six.

Silk Mill Leases Additional Space

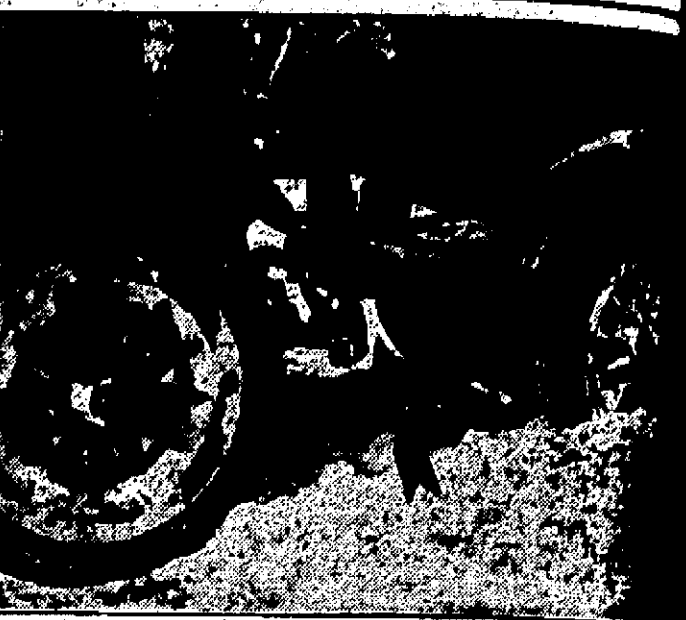

The Kattermann & Mitchell Company silk mill, an industry which located here a few years ago and which now operates one of the most modern plants in the city, has found it necessary to increase its floor space in order to keep up with the larger demands of business, and has leased the second floor of the John F. Herbert & Son plant on Greenkirk avenue to enable it to put in operation additional manufacturing plans.

Heretofore this particular work has been carried on in the home plant at Paterson, N. J., but it was found that it would be more advantageous to do it in Kingston.

The Chamber of Commerce was able to render considerable service to both parties concerned in this deal which was under way at the time of the Chamber of Commerce annual meeting but no reference was made to it at that time due to the fact that it was not an accomplished piece of work.

Money Won By Big Margin

York, Feb. 19. (AP)—Fandom here, and more particularly Boston, believed today that the reincarnation of the John L. Sullivan had appeared on the pugilistic horizon.

Delaney, "strong boy," burly, Maloney, gained absolute mastery over the title with his predecessor by hammering to Jack Delaney, light-heavyweight, in ten thrilling-rammed rounds, in the last round, Delaney was so badly beaten that he never jammed Madison Garden.

With Maloney's decisive victory cut in every respect, realization of the 18,184 spectators that a "good big man" can do a "good little man" every time, a decisive margin of 21 to 1, and a mercurial attack that knew a backward step, right defeat to the spectacular.

From the opening gong, the Boston giant threw his tremendous bulk to his 172 pound rival. Two arms drove grueling blows through the best guard the sport, Conn., "Rapper" could while a flinty jaw and bulging eyes absorbed the might of Delaney's crashing blows. The result was inevitable and conclusive, with the major of ringside critics awarding Delaney two by a shade, and one.

No Knockdowns.

There were no knockdowns. Although Delaney's vaunted right hand and uppercut landed clean true on Maloney's jaw time and time, the Boston brawler was too strong, and too seeped in power to be forced to more than shake his shaggy head like an angry grizzly and crash forward more.

The result, a startling upset in the 13 to 5 odds on Delaney's part, sent a host of Boston writers, their pockets crammed with money, back on the midnight train to the city. Boston backed its bet to the limit and many were remarks about "wise" New York.

At of the Delaney debacle, however, came word that the sparkling Canadian had aggravated the third round on old thumb, suffered in the last match by Paul Berlenbach. Although thumb was badly swollen, it was definitely established that the fight was broken. Otherwise the terrible injuries consisted of a sore for Maloney and cut lips Delaney.

Maloney's Rise.

Maloney, in the heavy, at division, had been spasmodic last night. In his 51 contests, he scored 15 knockouts and won decisions. Maloney has been beat out but once and that time by Gates, the Indian, in four rounds in 1924. After winning from the Boston favorite, Jack Sharkey, in ten rounds in 1924, Maloney is his fellow townsman twice in following year—once by decision again on a foul. Maloney's most decisive victories during 1926, over Harry Persson, Swedish champion, and a two round bout of Arthur Dekus, promising Italian.

Maloney's huge throng that seeped the Garden from early afternoon to the start of the big match, were three governors—Moore, of Jersey, Fuller, of Massachusetts, and Ritchie of Maryland while a prior engagement prevented presence of Governor Smith of New York.

Benefit of Title

Maloney, indeed, has great need of a foot, indeed, has great need of a foot, indeed, has great need of a foot, and then forget his proper of foot—J. Crown.

Boxers in Shape For Duke Bouts

Only two more days separate the hours when Joe Voddick, the Saenger-Idol, and George Lunden, the Finnish punch artist, will step into the roped arena at the White Eagle to exchange a few blows and decide who is the superior boxer.

The meeting will be the second under the auspices of the Duke, who matched the two men for their last fight at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen. This is the first time that the Duke Sporting and Athletic Club has financed a smoker in White Eagle Hall and a card of pleasing bouts is promised.

Voddick had the edge in the other meeting and his followers are sure that Joe will put up a performance this time that will by far eclipse the previous bout with the Finn.

However, the Finn does not mean to lose the reputation that he carried to this country when he arrived with Harry Persson and his entry into the ring with Voddick will mean that he intends to gain what he actually lost in the Port Ewen encounter.

The other bouts on the card promise to be equally as interesting as the main affair and the semi-final between Billy Rapp and Barney Montair, colored, of Poughkeepsie, trained by Joe Colletti, will probably be an exhibition of speed and clever boxing.

Roy Van Buren, one of the gamiest and flashiest pugilists in Kingston, will step four rounds with Kid Buck, a protégé of Joe Colletti and the meeting is scheduled to hold the attention of the ringworms for both boys are anxious to exchange mitts.

The last time that Roy met Kid Buck he put up a wonderful fight and the fracas had to be stopped by the referee because of Buck's inability to "stick it out."

The Al West vs. Fred Durio set to is promised to enliven the interest of the fans for both men have reputations of being clever exponents of the flat art.

Mike Sarkies and Billy Little will do their best to give the fans their money's worth and much is expected of both men who are endeavoring to climb the ladder of sociology.

There will be a vaudeville program given by Bill Houghtaling and De Koskie and Levine. Eddie Cashion and Eddie Scherer will officiate in the same capacity that they have functioned in during past performances of the kind and their efforts will be appreciated as in bygone events.

The Duke will be glad to furnish reserved seats to those who call on him at 108 Murray street, or phone Charles Nettis, 1935-W.

Newburgh Fire at Center.

The Layman-Berkwitz Ave. of Newburgh will meet the Young Judaea Ave in the Jewish Community Center Monday night. The team from down-the-river has a reputation that is most favorable and the local team has been doing fine work this season which means that a fast contest will be staged. The game will start at 8 p. m. There will be a preliminary game which will start at 7 o'clock.

Masonic Club Dance.

The Masonic Club will celebrate Washington's birthday with a dance at the club rooms for members of the club and their friends. The music will be furnished by the Zucca Club orchestra.

The Whippet quintet of this city scored a win over the T. X. T. aggregation of Flatbush Friday night on the latter's court. The final score was 45 to 39. KNIGHTS TO BATTLE WITH QUINTELL AT POUGHKEEPSIE.

Kingston Council, No. 273, Knights of Columbus will be represented on the court in Poughkeepsie Sunday afternoon when the first game in the Knights Hudson Valley League will be played. The Knights did not get under way until late but if the patron's approval of the brand of ball played plans will be made for a bigger league next year.

The boys who will represent the local organization in the game to be played under the A. A. C. rules, which will be one adverse feature as the team does not generally play under their jurisdiction, will be Manager Quinn, Tom McDermott, Pat Bruck, Joe Bruck, Tommy Davitt, Jerry McDermott and Tommy Pomeroy.

Poughkeepsie has two men on the team who will probably give the local something to worry about and they are Mickey Hanna and Harry McDermott. Mickey has been with the Poughkeepsie of Poughkeepsie since the disbanding of the Kingston professional team. McDermott at one time played first sack for the Connecticut. He jumps center for the Poughkeepsie.

Polar Region Cold

The cold pole of the northern hemisphere, far from obtaining with the North pole, is believed to be on the continent of Asia north of Siberia, where the temperature is said occasionally to fall to 60 degrees below zero F.

He was dubbed the "A No. 1" tramp by New Orleans Free Press. Another hobo, whose protégé Livingston was when he first started traveling, he would never upon any available place about railroad stations his unusual "A No. 1." During his wanderings he learned to speak three languages besides his own, French, German and Spanish. Why Radio Fans Send Applause

Psychologists Differ As to Why They Applaud Unseen Artists—Novelty of Hearing Messages Acknowledged on Air May Prompt Some.

A striking example of how various methods of communication support and supplement each other is furnished by the announcement of telegraph companies that the so-called radio applause telegram is growing constantly in popularity among radio fans.

Hundreds of thousands of listeners in during the year just passed felt the urge to express their appreciation of various radio artists by sending congratulatory telegrams, and this class of traffic has grown to such proportions that the telegraph companies are now prepared to make special arrangements at leading broadcasting stations for handling applause messages.

Opinions Differ As to Motives. Just what prompts these thousands to send telegrams to artists they have never seen and possibly never will see, has caused some difference of opinion among the psychologists.

Perhaps the fact that radio announcers frequently acknowledge receipt of such telegrams has something to do with it, for there certainly is a thrilling novelty in hearing your message read "on the air" from, say, Chicago, a few minutes after you telephoned it to the telegraph office in Oakland or Los Angeles. It seems more likely, however, that in a majority of cases the feeling which prompts the sending of the applause message is no more complicated than that which inspires an enthusiastic handclasp from an interested spectator at a theatre.

On numerous special occasions, telegraph companies have found it necessary to install special telegraph loops and operators for the handling of applause messages, which ordinarily are given preferred service, and in cases where the companies already have offices in the immediate vicinity of the broadcasting station, special messenger facilities are provided to take care of the rush of traffic when programs of unusual interest are scheduled.

Grand Opera Brought Big influx. In addition to the normal flow of applause messages, unusually heavy influxes are always to be expected in response to innovations or special features inaugurated from time to time by the broadcasting authorities.

For example, there was a flood of congratulatory messages recently when grand opera was broadcast for the first time, and the appearance of a nationally known artist is always the signal for a particularly heavy flow of telegrams.

Another large source of traffic for the telegraph companies is to be found in the radio contests held from time to time under the auspices of various broadcasting stations. The greatest number of these contests have been held in the Middle West, though almost every section of the country has been represented at one time or another.

Prohibition Debate Very Popular. Recent suggestions that a straw vote on prohibition, similar to that taken by the Literary Digest, might be handled comprehensively by radio and telegraph, recalls the fact that widespread attention was attracted by the debate on prohibition broadcast from Station WJAZ, Chicago, with Clarence Darrow, of Scopes trial fame, taking the wet side. On that occasion more than 47,000 telegrams were sent to Station WJAZ, the ratio between the wet and dry vote being approximately 3 to 1.

Outstanding among radio contests, however, was that held last year by Station KFNE, owned by the Henry Field Seed Company, Shenandoah, Iowa. As a result of this contest the Western Union Telegraph Company handled 225,889 telegrams to Station KFNE from listeners in located in every state in the United States, every province in Canada and in Mexico and Cuba.

To handle this enormous volume of business, special high speed automatic telegraph apparatus was installed by the company, and a number of operators were brought to Shenandoah from larger cities in the vicinity. The Field company awarded prizes totalling some $60,000 in value in connection with the various contests, which included an Old Fiddlers' contest, Quartet, Harmonica and Accordion competitions.

Many Other Contests Held. Other contests held in the Middle West were those by Station WOAW, the Woodmen's organization at Omaha; the Interstate Fiddlers' Contest at Jefferson City, Mo., sponsored by the governors of nine Middle Western states; and contests at Clay Center, Neb., Lincoln, Neb., Denver, Salt Lake City, Buffalo, N. Y., and numerous other places.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Varied and excellent programs received perfectly from WJZ, WGY and WEAH should have pleased the fans Friday evening. The Goldman band from WEAH and the Remington band from WGY were especially clear. Then there was a very solemn person veiling with alarm almost everything, who could be heard from WHAP and a booster of religious books at WBSB. Chicago stations were weak and, sometimes noisy.

In the afternoon Almee McPherson, who was or was not kidnapped in California, launched her campaign for the salvation of the wicked East and was broadcast by WOD. Almee has a rather sweet voice until she becomes so intense and ecstatic that it cracks. In her anecdotes she calls everybody "darling" or "dearest." Her subject was the book of Ruth, all of it, and she predicts big doing in New York in the next three days, as a division is going to take place in the people. The latter part of the address was marred by a rattling, buzzing sound—probably Satan shuddering and gnashing his teeth in apprehension of his forthcoming extermination.

The Manlius School Band will broadcast its first "hookup" concert from 3 to 4 o'clock Sunday through stations WGY, Schenectady; WFB, Syracuse; WHAM, Rochester; and WMAR, Buffalo.

WDBZ will broadcast the Fair Street Reformed Church services at 10:30 Sunday morning.

Your Income Tax

Charitable contributions and gifts are deductible within limitations provided by the revenue act of 1926. In order that a deduction may be made, contributions to a corporation, trust, community chest, fund, or foundation must meet several tests. Such organization must be operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children and animals. No part of its income must inure to the benefit of private stockholders or individuals.

Every church constitutes a religious corporation for the purpose of this deduction. Contributions made to a missionary fund, to church building funds, and for the benefit of other activities of the church are deductible. Few rents, assessments, and dues paid to churches are regarded as contributions.

Gifts to an individual are not deductible, but if made to a charitable organization, as defined by the revenue act, may be deducted even though the organization distributes the funds among individual beneficiaries. Gifts to any corporation or association organized or devoted to the advancement of learning are exempt.

Contributions or gifts made within the taxable year 1926 to the United States, the District of Columbia, any State or Territory, any "political subdivision thereof" (city, town, county, or village), for "exclusively public purposes" are deductible. A gift of real estate to a city to be maintained perpetually as a public park is deductible.

Claims for deductions for contributions or gifts must be substantiated. Taxpayers are required to state in their returns the names and addresses of each organization to which a gift was made, the approximate date, and the amount of the gift in each case.

DECORATED RINGS

BRIDE AND GROOM

The growing popularity of the Double Ring Ceremony is unquestioned. It's not a new fashion. It's simply the reappearance of a very old one—changed for the better, as you would expect. Two Rings—one for the Bride, the other for the Groom, are necessary and it is essential that these rings should, by their very design, carry the sentiment of the occasion down through the coming years. We have very beautiful designs on display.
